Understand the business problem.

The Ministry of the Interior faces a serious problem during national elections. Political instability and the level of insecurity severely affect the level of interest of the population in the elections. We have reached a point where the majority of the country's people lose interest in participating in elections if they do not have a personal interest in the candidate. The chart below shows the level of interest of the population in national elections.

Understand the data

Solving the problem requires a special focus on the opinion of the citizens regarding the national elections. The Ministry of the Interior needs to get feedback from citizens on past elections in order to improve their performance in the conduct of future elections.
Therefore, the data for this project was collected through a survey to gather data on the effects of political instability and the level of insecurity on the population during national elections.
This survey targets information such as:
- Socio-demographic data of citizens
- Their sources of information
- Their interests in the political affairs of the country
- Their levels of participation in national elections

- Their opinions on the upcoming elections
- Their sources of motivation or demotivation for elections

Data modelling

The people of Haiti have a bad image of politics because for some time now the news has been about corrupt politics.
For the modeling of the data received via the survey form, the analysis was done by google sheet to extract the useful data.
This graph shows the level of interest of citizens in the political affairs of the country.
